

Traditional Meadowmat

Recreate the wildflower meadows of yesteryear in your own garden using Traditional Meadowmat.

A mixture of 34 perennial plants, all of them native to the UK that emulates a traditional, old fashioned hay meadow. Traditional Meadowmat likes to be in a sunny spot.

This colourful mix gives a nice balance of colours and textures. In summer time, the tall plants will gently sway in the breeze bringing movement into the garden.

Allow plants to grow and flower unchecked throughout spring and summer and then cut back when flowering finishes – usually around August. Mow periodically in Autumn and Winter to keep it neat. Never cut to below the minimum length of 10cm (4 inches).

Sown mix contains 70% flowering plants, 30% grasses by weight.

4 species of native grasses to provide perches for insects and food for the larvae of butterflies and moths.

30 species of flowering plants provide a rich source of pollen and nectar for a range of insects.

For best results install onto low fertility soil.
