What is Corten Steel

Weathering steel, often referred to by the genericized trademark COR-TEN steel and sometimes written without the hyphen as Corten steel, is a group of steel alloys which were developed to eliminate the need for painting, or Galvanising and form a stable rust-like appearance after several months exposure to weather.

First invented for industrial uses such as building bridges, it was designed to keep building costs down, as without the need to paint or Galvanise this steel to protect it from the elements, less processes are involved making the final product much cheaper in comparison.

Now a very trendy and popular material for all sorts of garden features, Corten Steel is bringing an industrial and contemporary feel to Many garden and outdoor spaces. An extremely popular addition to many of the feature gardens at the RHS Chelsea Flower Show.

Andes

- The Andes cube & trough planters are crafted from thick Corten Steel that naturally weathers into a stunning shade of orange brown. The rusted appearance gives a warm, natural look that looks amazing but also acts as a protective layer against corrosion. This gives Corten Steel planters excellent longevity when placed outdoors and makes them a highly popular choice for residential gardens and business spaces. These planters include 15mm feet recessed in, this gives the appearance the planter is floating 15mm up off the floor.

How to light a fire in Our Fire Bowls & Wood Burners

- ▶ Using your wood burner: To light a fire we suggest using fire lighters or gel, with small pieces of kindling placed on the top. It is essential to use small amounts of wood to start with and to add larger wood/logs when the fire is burning nicely. Ensure that the fire gets enough oxygen to keep burning.
- ▶ Please note: We advise wearing gloves and appropriate facial protection when lighting your fire bowl or wood burner. The outside of the wood burner can become very hot - please be aware of this.
- ▶ All our Corten steel products come un-weathered finish. It may take several weeks to start to weather and gain its infamous rusty look once placed outdoors. This rust process takes approximately 2-5 months.

Forno BBQ

► How to use the FORNO®

When you use the FORNO® for the first time, it is important to make a small fire for the first 25 minutes before increasing the fire. The heavy roasting plate will become significantly warmer on the underside than on the upper side. Due to this temperature difference, the plate will draw hollow (concave slightly). After the first use, the plate has 'settled' and this procedure is no longer necessary. The FORNO® cooking unit will work best after it has been used once or twice and the oil has been burned into the plate. Cooking on the roasting plate will be easier after the oil has 'burnt-in', this also protects the plate from rusting when not in use. Its best to use a vegetable oil with a high degree of combustion, such as sunflower oil.

► Maintenance, cleaning and installation

Cleaning the FORNO® is not really necessary. The cooking oil and food remains can be slid into the fire with a spatula after use. If desired, the roasting plate can be cleaned with a damp cloth before use. The FORNO® can withstand weather and wind and requires no further maintenance. Thanks to the heavy duty adjustable feet, the FORNO® can be placed stably on almost any surface. The design also takes into account that this heavily executed cooking unit can be moved; the total unit consists of various parts that can be easily assembled or disassembled without tools.

► Temperature

After about 25-30 minutes of burning, the roasting plate of the FORNO® will have reached a temperature of 275 - 300°C on the inner edge. When the fire has been made, you can start by greasing the plate. The temperature of the outer edge is slightly lower, so you can switch between roasting and keeping warm. When heating the roasting plate, it will pull hollow (slightly concave). So excess oil and fats will automatically end up in the fire. When the plate has cooled down, it will completely straighten out again.

Brann

- ▶ The Brann is a very popular choice, as it is our only gas powered burner plus it has a great contemporary touch to it. It can be used a great focal point in your garden, especially when used as a table in the middle of a seating area, where you and guests/family can enjoy a longer time outdoors and be infatuated with the flickering flames this gas fire gives.
- ▶ Using your gas burner: The gas bottle (not included) can be simply and safely placed underneath the gas burner. The gas bottle is then connected to the burner with a regulator in the same way a gas barbeque is connected. Lighting and adjusting the temperature can be done simply on the control panel at the front of the burner.
