

The Gallery is a stylish collection of apartments and penthouses close to Cambridge city centre. The Taylor Wimpey development was designed with a mixture of retro and contemporary chic to appeal to younger buyers.

Lang+Fulton (formerly Orsogrill UK) was asked to supply 148 framed panels for fixing into the balcony balustrade.

Terra-34 with a 34x100mm aperture grating was specified to comply with the National House Building Council's guidelines for anti-climb balustrades of <35mm width mesh.

The contract also included security grilles for the ground level parking area and wall-fixed panels to act as plant trellising throughout the surrounding landscaped gardens. These were made from Stereo-2 with a 62x132mm aperture.

The panels were supplied in a hot-dip galvanized finish, preserving an aesthetic integrity with the other natural materials used on the exterior.
